Counting Sheep

Toss and turn, turn and toss.

At least a million sheep I count.

Toss and turn, I still can't sleep.

Instead the sheep jump one by one.

I don't know why this doesn't work.

Why do I lie here awake?

Wait a sec! Don't sheep need sleep?

Back in the pen they go.

"Good night, sheep," I say to them,

And then I promptly fall asleep.

B

Red pandas and giant pandas share a name and a fondness for eating bamboo, but they are actually not closely related. Red pandas do, however, have a lot in common with other animals. For example, red pandas are about the size of a house cat. They spend a good part of their day behaving like cats, too. They lick their paws and fur to clean themselves. Then when they sleep, they curl (卷曲) up just like a cat, using their tail for a blanket. Like raccoons (浣熊), red pandas dip (浸) their paws into water to wash their faces. And like skunks (臭鼬), who spray (喷射) a pungent scent (气味), red pandas will spray a stinky (发恶臭的) smell to defend themselves if frightened.

Because red pandas have beautiful bright red colouring and look like foxes, they are sometimes called firefoxes.

Their bodies are red and white, but their legs and stomachs are black. These colours help them keep safe among the branches of trees that are covered with a reddish-brown moss (苔藓).

Red pandas spend most of their time eating bamboo up in the trees of forests in India, Nepal and China. Since bamboo leaves do not provide a lot of energy, red pandas have to eat a lot of bamboo. In fact, some red pandas will eat about twenty thousand leaves a day!

- () 55. Based on the text, what are two ways in which a red panda behaves like a cat?
- A. A red panda licks its fur to keep clean. B. A red panda curls up when it sleeps.
C. A red panda purrs(猫的呜呜声) when it is happy. D. A red panda holds its tail high when it is happy.
- () 56. Based on the text, why are red pandas sometimes called firefoxes?
- A. Because of their looks. B. Because they like hot weather.
C. Because of their strength. D. Because they are brave.
- () 57. Based on clues in the text, how might red pandas' reddish-brown fur be helpful?
- A. It helps them stay safe by blending in with the trees.
B. It makes them look dangerous to enemies.
C. It tricks other animals into thinking red pandas are foxes.
D. It makes them look bigger than they actually are.
- () 58. What is the meaning of pungent as used in the text?
- A. Strong and unpleasant B. Large and forceful
C. Silky and smooth D. Bright and shiny
